About Section

I'm an upbeat and positive person, who finds immense joy in embracing life's adventures. Since jumping into the realm of UX I've developed a profound fascination with its impact on everyday experiences. I can't help but notice poorly designed systems even in the most mundane places like supermarkets; finding myself envisioning the transformative power of simple improvements.

I enjoy all steps of end-to-end design; finding satisfaction in every stage. Previously, I worked as an Event Manager, where quick thinking and ensuring everyone's enjoyment were my forte (and I was good at it).

However, my desire for exploration and novelty led me to embark on a UX journey; changing careers paths, whilst bringing with me all my experience.

When I'm not engrossed in learning about the world of UX, UI and design, you'll likely find me in a comedy club, tuning into podcasts, or admiring architecture wondering around.

Laughter, learning and human connections are the things that are close to my heart.
